

Join Us on Thursday, Aug. 30th from 7-10 PM in Afterwords Club - Downstairs at Beefeaters

LIVE MUSIC
Happy Hour
Dinner Special
 Dinner includes 8 oz. steak, salad, potato, and vegetable for $10.00. No substitutions allowed. Price does not include beverages, dessert, gratuity, or sales tax.

Ronan, Geci, & Copeland
$1 Off All Legal Beverages
8 oz. Steak for $10

THE BRADFORD MAIN STREET MOVIE HOUSE

Playing Now!
8/24/18 - 8/30/18

Christopher Robin and The Meg

FOR SHOWTIMES GO TO BradfordCinema.com

From Page 1

Setzer

can't come out," Vera Setzer said.

Her son and his wife had split, and he was taking it very hard, the mother explained. Setzer's wife had moved on, and had someone new in her life. While Chad Setzer was in the hospital, his mother had broken the news to him. Despite her wishes, the hospital released him with an admonition that he should go to drug rehab, Vera Setzer recounted.

He had a substance abuse issue, she acknowledged, but said she didn't know what drug he might have used — and she maintained he wanted to get clean.

As his relationship with his former wife went downhill, Chad Setzer spiraled out of control, his mother said.

"They had a tumultuous marriage, but when you lose it, you lose it," she said. "He was like a cannon ready to go off."

Vera Setzer says she is feeling a lot of emotions right now, the foremost being anger.

"I'm mad at him," she said. "He had four little children. He had no right. They needed him."

She's upset with the police as well, but said she doesn't know all the details of what happened.

"I don't understand why they couldn't call one of us to come talk to him," she said, crying softly.

"All I wanted was for everybody to be safe."

Before ending the call, she asked that her son not be vilified.

"He wasn't a bad boy. He did some bad things."

United Way

including raw, casino and steamed clams, but also a general buffet featuring sausage sandwiches, corn roast, salt potatoes, baked beans, spinach salad, caprese salad, coleslaw, desserts and beverages, according to Mandi Wilton Davis, executive director of the Bradford United Way.

Live music will be provided during the event by Jim Copeland, Tyler Calkins and Mick Marshall. There will also be a cash bar, 50/50 and raffle tickets for sale, as well as the new prospective feature of a cornhole tournament. There is a minimum of 10 teams required for the tournament to be a go, and the cost is $10 per team. Possible participants must have already purchased a ticket to the event itself to participate. The winning team will get fifty percent of the proceeds and a new set of cornhole boards.

This year to honor the 20th anniversary of the event, according to Davis, anyone who purchases $20 in 50/50 tickets will be entered in a drawing to win a Zippo grill and a $100 meat package from Save-A-Lot. The raffle items up for grabs include a $500 VISA gift card; four Pittsburgh Penguins game tickets and a $100 VISA gift card; or one of five $20 Bradford Area Chamber of Commerce gift certificates.

It's not too late to reserve your spot; advanced reservations are $35, while walk-ins will be $40. The price includes the buffet dinner, desserts and beverages.

Additional monetary and in-kind sponsors this year include Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield, Mike and Amy DePalma, Thirty-One Independent Director Heather Bell, State Farm Agent Jennifer McMillen, Westline Inn, Glenwood Beer Distributors, A & B Barbeque, Save-A-Lot, Tops Supermarket, Zippo and Gus and Mary Ann Crissman.

The annual United Way campaign is currently supporting several local programs and services in 2018, including A Partnership in Housing Inc., Alcohol & Drug Abuse Services, Bradford Ecumenical Home Inc., Bradford Regional Medical Center's Meals on Wheels program, CARE for Children, Court Appointed Special Advocates of McKean County, Catholic Charities, Destinations Bradford, Dickinson Center, Evergreen Elm, Futures Rehabilitation Center, Greater Bradford Senior Activity Center, Growing with Grace Christian Preschool, McKean County 2-1-1, McKean County Arts Council, McKean County Historical Society, McKean County Special Olympics, McKean/Potter American Red Cross, The Bradford Family Center, The Salvation Army, YMCA of the Twin Tiers and the Bradford YMCA.

For more information on the Pig Roast/Clam Bake, or the United Way's annual campaign, Be The Change, visit uwbanews.org or call (814) 368-6181.

Pa. school safety report recommends better communication, more mental health services

PHILADELPHIA (TNS) — A Pennsylvania task force commissioned by Gov. Wolf in the aftermath of February's mass shooting at a Parkland, Florida, high school calls on school officials and students — and, when necessary, police — to better communicate with each other about potential threats, and urges schools to step up mental health services, including more psychologists and nurses.

Released just as more than 1.7 million kids are starting a new year in Pennsylvania public schools, the report from the Pennsylvania School Safety Task Force — co-chaired by Wolf, who is seeking re-election in November, and auditor general Eugene DePasquale — is light on specifics but identifies a number of broad strategies aimed at addressing students' fears about mass shootings as well as bullying, other types of violence, and depression.

DePasquale, citing testimony from six hearings held around the state this spring with students, educators and other stakeholders, said in a statement that "young men and women stood before us and described their feelings of helplessness and anxiety that they want more and better mental health services. Now, it is our job to heed those concerns and to do everything in our power to create safer spaces for learning."

Although no money or specific mandates were attached to Monday's report, Wolf noted that the 2018-19 state budget included a $60 million initiative to issue grants to districts across the state — as determined by a new state committee — that would help pay for new safety measures such as updating buildings, training teachers, or establishing community violence-prevention programs.

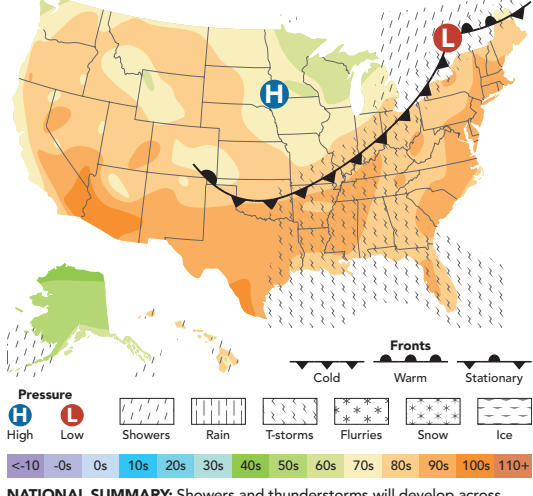

"It's abundantly clear that by working together, schools, communities and the state can take a holistic approach to make our classrooms a safe place for students to learn," Wolf said in a statement. "Our focus is on preventing violence that threatens schools, while also taking every precaution to protect and provide security for students and teachers."

WEATHER

National weather  AccuWeather.com

Forecast for Wednesday, August 29, 2018

Bands separate high temperature zones for the day.

Pressure
 High Low

Fronts
 Cold Warm Stationary

Weather
 Showers Rain T-storms Flurries Snow Ice

NATIONAL SUMMARY: Showers and thunderstorms will develop across parts of the East today, while the heat and humidity will linger for one more day. Showers and storms will also build across the Gulf Coast and over Florida as the Midwest dries out. Expect more dry conditions across much of the West, which will provide no relief for the wildfire situation.

©2018 AccuWeather, Inc.

LOCAL FORECAST

Today

Today there is a chance of showers and thunderstorms mainly after 5 p.m. with mostly sunny skies otherwise and a high near 87 degrees. Tonight showers and thunderstorms are likely, mainly between 7 p.m. and 2 a.m., with otherwise mostly cloudy skies and a low around 63 degrees.

Extended Forecast

Thursday there will be a chance of showers and thunderstorms before 8 a.m. followed by a slight chance of showers with mostly cloudy skies and a high near 72 degrees. Thursday night will be partly cloudy with a low around 52 degrees. Friday will be mostly sunny with a high near 78 degrees. Friday night will be mostly cloudy with a low around 61 degrees.

BRADFORD READINGS

Tuesday, August 28, 2018

Midnight 74	9 a.m. 74	6 p.m. 84
1 a.m. 74	10 a.m. 77	7 p.m. 82
2 a.m. 73	11 a.m. 78	8 p.m. 79
3 a.m. 72	Noon 80	9 p.m. 77
4 a.m. 72	1 p.m. 82	10 p.m. 73
5 a.m. 72	2 p.m. 84	11 p.m. 72
6 a.m. 72	3 p.m. 84	Last year
7 a.m. 72	4 p.m. 85	High 69
8 a.m. 72	5 p.m. 84	Low 47

Shooting

Kane station returned fire, striking (Setzer) causing fatal injuries.

"The scene was secured at that time," the affidavit read.

The search warrant, applied for by Trooper Neil Ginter, was for the entire grounds of the house, barn, garage, utility sheds, a camper and a vehicle. The affidavit indicated troopers believed there may have been evidence on the property that would assist in the investigation.

Named on the search warrant as items sought were illegal or prescribed drugs, paraphernalia, electronics or computer equipment, cell phones, weapons, backpacks, survival kits and gear and any notes, journals or other writings.

The warrant was signed by District Judge Rich Luther at 11:21 p.m. Monday.

Tuesday afternoon, McKean County District Attorney Stephanie Vettenburg-Shaffer said the autopsy was conducted earlier in the day in Pittsburgh.

While normally autopsies are conducted in Erie, the forensic pathologist is on vacation.

"We chose not to wait," Shaffer said.

She declined to comment further, saying only that the investigation is continuing.

State police headquarters in Harrisburg wouldn't release information specific to the Port Allegany shooting, but a spokesman, Cpl. Adam Reed, explained the procedures followed when an officer-involved shooting occurs.

"We have a very strict protocol statewide any time one of our troopers is involved in a shooting," he explained, noting the trooper involved is placed on administrative duty pending the outcome of the investigation.

"It's a modified duty assignment outside of their normal duties that might include desk or filing," Reed said. "They will not be out and about in the public."

Reed explained that right after a shooting takes place, the trooper involved will notify his or her supervisor, who will then call for forensic services, criminal investigators and internal affairs investigators to respond to the scene.

"It's also important we work with respective (district attorney's) offices," Reed said. "They are going to be an important part of the investigation. . . . Eventually, it's going to be up to the DA to rule on that shooting, whether or not it's justified."

State police have a members' assistance program, "more or less a peer group that provides support services and counseling services" for troopers, he said.

"While the criminal investigation is going on and once concluded, our internal affairs will conduct an investigation to make sure our procedures were followed."

Reed reiterated that at the scene, the first concern is going to be safety — both of the officer and the public.

"Investigators look at a lot of evidence," he said. "They are going to look at our in-car video recorders, if they show what happened. Perhaps surveillance video and witness statements, evidence at the scene like shell casings and things of that nature."

Reed explained that in this region, officer-involved shootings are a fairly rare occurrence.

"When you compare the number of interactions troopers have on a daily basis with the number of

Exchange student pleads guilty to firearm charge for threat

By CLAUDIA LAUER
 Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Taiwanese exchange student accused of threatening to carry out a shooting at his suburban Philadelphia high school pleaded guilty to a federal firearms charge on Tuesday.

An-Tso Sun was arraigned in federal court, where he entered the guilty plea. A judge scheduled sentencing for December, but Sun's attorney Robert Keller asked that the date be moved up once the pre-sentencing report is finished.

Sun, 18, has agreed to be deported and to not re-enter the U.S. without permission.

He previously pleaded guilty to state terroristic threat charges and was sentenced to four to 23 months. He was immediately paroled and remanded to federal custody to face a charge of an alien in possession of ammunition.

The judge could sentence Sun to up to 10 years in prison and up to $250,000 in fines. Keller said after court Tuesday that he hopes to show up for the sentencing hearing with a plane ticket.

"That's going to be the mantra, the cry, when he gets to sentencing. Let this boy go home," he said.

School authorities were alerted in March that Sun talked about a May 1 shooting at Monsignor Bonner and Archbishop Prendergast High School in Upper Darby, about 7 miles (11 kilometers) west of Philadelphia. The teen called the talk a joke, but authorities found more than 1,600 rounds of ammunition, as well as weapons, in his home.

Keller objected Tuesday to the U.S. Attorney's office including the allegation that Sun had told a classmate not to come to school on May 1 because he was planning a shooting. The judge overruled his objection, but Keller said after court Tuesday that he will raise it again during sentencing. He accused prosecutors of "going overboard" in trying to prove their case.

Keller previously said Sun "had no intention or plans" to commit a school shooting and many items found were what he wore to school for a Halloween costume contest.

A military-style ballistic vest, ammunition clip pouches, a high-powered crossbow and live ammunition were found in Sun's bedroom in Lansdowne, Upper Darby Police Superintendent Michael Chitwood said. A search of his school-issued iPad indicated searches on how to buy an AK-47 or an AR-15 semi-automatic rifle, police said.

Sun's parents are actor and assistant film director Sun Peng and actress Di Ying.

Keller said they were in Philadelphia and had been visiting their son weekly but chose not to come to court Tuesday to try to remove some of the spotlight from their son. He said they have been upset because their son was expelled two months before graduating high school and had been accepted to Temple University.

"We can understand why the government is taking these matters so seriously, and I think the huge mistake that this young child made was he didn't understand the dynamics of what's going on in the United States," Keller said after court. "He now gets it... and it's time for this kid to go home."

Upper Darby Police Department via AP, File

This undated photo provided by the Upper Darby Police Department in Upper Darby, shows An-Tso Sun, a Taiwanese exchange student arrested for threatening a shooting at his suburban Philadelphia high school, Monsignor Bonner and Archbishop Prendergast Catholic High School in Drexel Hill, Pa. Sun pleaded guilty to a federal firearms charge Tuesday during a federal court arraignment. Sun previously pleaded guilty to state terroristic threat charges and was sentenced to four to 23 months.

Lotteries:

Tuesday	Pa. Cash Five: 7-12-26-38-41
Midday
Pa. Pick 2 (08/28): 7-4	Midday:
Pa. Pick 3: 0-0-4	N.Y. Numbers (08/28): 2-8-6
Pa. Pick 4: 7-2-9-6	N.Y. Win Four: 2-3-7-3
Pa. Pick 5: 2-6-8-8-9	Evening:
Pa. Treasure Hunt: 1-2-9-15-20	N.Y. Numbers (08/28): 7-9-7
Evening:	N.Y. Win Four: 1-0-6-2
Pa. Pick 2 (08/28): 0-5	N.Y. Pick 10: 1-5-9-12-20-21-22-30-32-33-47-48-52-54-56-63-66-67-69-76
Pa. Pick 3: 4-9-0
Pa. Pick 4: 6-0-0-5
Pa. Pick 5: 9-0-4-7-9	